Until the American Commissioners at Atlantic City are persuaded of Carranza's ability to maintain order and protect foreign interests in Mexico, it is stated, there is no chance that the Pershing expedition will be withdrawn. This understanding has been reached between the Administration and the commissioners. The Pershing expedition, by this attitude, is no longer punitive or defensive, but is frankly an army of occupation, indicating the readiness of the United States to intervene in Mexican affairs as it has in Hayti and Santo Domingo.

HENKEL WEDDING

Man Who Filed First Marriage Offer Wouldn't Deposit $1,000.

It was not lack of mutual affection that prevented Jacob Henkel and Miss Anna Kuhnel from marrying during their eight years of uninterrupted courtship. It was a little difference of opinion over money matters.

After Miss Kuhnel had sued Mr. Henkel for breach of promise, demanding $500,000, and after Mr. Henkel had respectively.

kel for breach of promise, demanding $50,000, and after Mr. Henkel had replied through the courts stating he would marry Miss Kuhnel next Monday if she would have him, the whole puzzle of deferred matrimony was explained yesterday by Henkel's attorney, Walter G. Howell.

Walter G. Howell.

"Mr. Henkel loves Miss Kuhnel," he said. "He has proposed to her hundreds of times in the last eight years. She has accepted him as often on condition that he deposit $1,000 to her credit in her bank. This my client has refused to do. Once she told him she would marry him if he gave her $1,000 and would sue him for divorce and alimony the next day."

However, it now looks as if Miss Kuhnel will marry Mr. Henkel unconditionally. She notified her counsel. Charles A. Oberwager, yesterday that she would accept the proposal filed in the Supreme Court by Mr. Henkel.

Mr. Henkel is fifty years old and well-to-do. He is head of a department in a publishing house. Miss Kuhnel is forty-two and also has property of considerable value. They met eight years ago and both admit falling in love at first sight.

Miss Kuhnel became housekeeper for Mr. Henkel, who was a widower and had one son. She served in that careful well-to-do.

Miss Kuhnel became housekeeper for Mr. Henkel, who was a widower and had one son. She served in that capacity till a week ago yesterday, when she left to consult an attorney. Her suit was filed early this week. On Thursday Henkel filed an answer in the Supreme Court saying he loved Miss Kuhnel and would meet her at 10 o'clock on October 2 in the Marriage License Bureau and get a license and then marry Miss Kuhnel in the City Hall or in any other place of her choice. Mr. Henkel said his offer of marriage would hold good for fifteen days after October 2.

The "famous cheese-box on a raft" that revolutionized naval warfare may have its land counterpart, editorial observers are noting, in the new British traveling forts, or land monitors, nicknamed "tanks" and "Willies" by the "Tommies."

In THE LITERARY DIGEST for September 30th the leading article gives a clear description of those new "super-dreadnoughts" of the land, illustrated, including a map showing where the "tanks" first went into action, causing, according to General Haig, "indescribable demoralization in the enemy's ranks.
